Grants Decision Process for New Programs

Apply for this grant?

This is a green light, red light, caution light process to evaluate if a grant application should be made. Ideally, all signals will be green before proceeding with grant application.

What is the grant concept; what will this grant support? ____________________________

1. Is the concept compatible with mission statement?

   Yes? ___________ Go to next question

   No? __________

2. Is the concept a part of current top tier strategy?

   Yes? ___________ Go to next question Which tier? _________________

   No? __________

3. We have data that clearly demonstrates need for program for grant application.

   Yes? ___________ Go to next question

   Some reservations? __________

   No? __________

4. Concept has been reviewed by relevant staff and approved.

   Yes? ___________ Go to next question

   Some reservations? __________

   No? __________

©Leigh Klein, Planned Parenthood of Kansas & Mid-Missouri
6. Organization financial and data management systems can meet grant reporting requirements.

   Yes? ___________ Go to next question

   Some reservations? __________

   No? ____________

7. There are good prospects for funding this program at the end of this grant.

   Yes? ___________ Go to next question

   Some reservations? __________

   No? ____________

9. Concept approved by CEO.

   Yes? ___________ Go to next question

   No? ____________

10. Concept received board approval.

    Yes? ___________ Go to next question

    No? ____________